Mr. Mamadou Biteye, Africa Regional Director, Rockefeller Foundation

Mr. Mamadou Biteye, Africa Regional Director, Rockefeller Foundation was at the University of Nairobi for a Youth conference on Agribusiness to mark the International Youth Day. The conference was held at the University of Nairobi in collaboration with Rockefeller Foundation.

Biteye said that the University of Nairobi is the place to go when you want to see change. He said that UoN is among the best in Africa with very vibrant and brilliant young minds that can use their energy to effect changes in Africa's economy positively.

Mr. Biteye said that he was among the youth that failed to avail themselves of an opportunity to do farming because like many he was eyeing the white collar job. He said that Agriculture contributes 32% to the GDP in Africa and there is so much land available for farming.
